

European Court of Justice rules on compliance with formal requirements when seeking VAT refund from another member state 1/40/21

On 9 September 2021 the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) ruled on a dispute over the tax authority's right to refuse a VAT refund if the taxable person fails to duly submit documents the authority has requested to prove the person's refund claim is valid. This article explores CJEU findings and Latvian case law.
