

Foreigner's eID card to address e-invoicing-related matters 2/5/25

As is already known, companies that carry out transactions with public authorities (B2G) are now obliged to issue a structured electronic invoice. From 1 January 2026, this requirement will also be mandatory for business-to-business (B2B) transactions. To ensure mandatory electronic invoicing locally, a solution for decentralised electronic invoicing via three electronic transmission channels is envisaged:

1. The free national delivery solution E-address;
2. PEPPOL service providers or operators (paid service);
3. Individual kind by agreement between the issuer and the recipient of the invoice regarding the transmission channel (email, direct software integration interfaces)
